

GROEBE

KIRCHSPIEL Riesling Kabinett VDP.Grosse Lage

Location

The vineyard is located on the middle and upper slopes of a hillside in an area which extends in a south-easterly direction, embracing the historical part of Westhofen. A chain of hills to the west and north of the location protects the vineyards from cold winds. Due to the gradient an exposition of the land, the vineyards enjoy optimum exposure to the sun. The vineyard is classified as VDP Grosse Lage®.

Soil

The heart of the KIRCHSPIEL terrain is a composition of marlaceous clay, a large proportion of limestone skeletal remains and a small proportion of weathered chalky clay soils. Limestone is the predominant component of the sub-soil.

Wine

For a Kabinett wine, the grapes should be harvested relatively early so that the lightness and elegance typical of Kabinett are not lost. Nevertheless, a Kabinett wine from VDP.Grosse Lage can also bring a somewhat greater wealth.

After careful pressing, fermentation and expansion of the wine take place, as is generally the case with us, in traditional wooden barrels. The wine shows the typical aromas of vineyard peaches, citrus fruits, apricots and delicate flint, combined with a complex minerality. The classic, fruity-sweet Riesling Kabinett with a corresponding aging potential.
